

Abstract

A reflective liquid crystal colour display device (5) is driven by image data that has been filtered so that relatively dark regions are displayed lighter than indicated by the image data, so as to compensate for image darkening in the visual representation of the image produced by the display device.